

Spring 2022 Registration Guide
Provided by the Office of Academic Advising and Success Coaching

Pre-registration advising begins on Monday, October 25th

Undergraduate students continue to register by class. Use the table below from Student Records for guidance.

Student Records: <http://academicaffairs.loyno.edu/records/registration>

Undergraduate (day) students in the Colleges of Arts and Sciences, Music & Media, and the College of Business register based on their future classification. For example, if you are currently a junior and the hours for which you are currently registered will make you a senior next semester, your classification for early registration will be senior. Therefore, you register on the dates that are scheduled for seniors.

Steps for Registering for Classes

(1) Contact/Schedule an appointment with your advisor.

You must consult your advisor, usually a member of the faculty in your declared degree program, before you register for classes. Your advisor needs to approve your planned schedule and “clear” you to register. Your advisor will not register you for classes. You must do that yourself.

You can find your faculty advisor’s contact information in your LORA account, under “Advisors.” If you are unsure of how to schedule a meeting with this advisor remotely, send her or him an email.

Make sure you have received written confirmation from your advisor that you have been cleared to register.

(2) Check LORA for any registration holds that may prevent you from registering on time.

Holds can be related to (a) an overdue or unmet financial aid obligation, (b) immunization records unsubmitted or out-of-date, (c) not meeting with your advisor, (d) not signing off on your Student Responsibilities and Expectations Agreement.

(a) and (b) will be listed in your LORA account under “Holds.” (c) and (d) won’t necessarily be listed anywhere in LORA, but can appear as barriers to timely registration when you actually register if they have not been resolved.

For financial holds, you will want to connect with Student Financial Services at 504-865-3337 or sfscenter@loyno.edu.

For Immunization holds, you can connect with Student Health Services at 504-865-3326 or studenthealth@loyno.edu.

(3) Draft an outline of a schedule for registration.

Do this before you meet with your advisor.

In order to register for classes, you need to know which classes your degree program requires you to take. There are two ways to find this information.

(a) Your Degree Program Course Listing \(DPCL\) is a sheet that shows all requirements, Core, Major, Adjunct, and Elective for each degree program on campus. You can find your DPCL by searching the appropriate link below. Make sure that the DPCL matches the year you started at Loyola.

(4) Register for classes.

Now that you have made a draft schedule, met with your advisor, checked your registration holds (and made arrangements to clear those holds, if there were any), it's time to register!

Remember that you will register for courses on your own. Log into your LORA account and select "Drop and Add Classes" under the "Registration Tab."

Please remember that, even after your registration date, your registration for Fall does not have to be final. You can make changes to your schedule through the class drop/ add deadlines during the first two weeks of classes of the new semester. If you register and remain uncertain about your schedule, you can still contact your academic advisor and discuss it with them.

Resources for Registration

(1) Your faculty advisor. See discussion of faculty advising below.

(2) Office of Academic Advising and Success Coaching in the Student Success Center.

Our team of full-time, professional academic advisors and success coaches are available for on-campus appointments and remote/virtual appointments. Our contact information and availability for appointments is accessible through our YouCanBookMe accounts listed at <http://success.loyno.edu/advising-coaching>

You can also connect with an on-call advisor during Registration Walk-ins from Monday, November 8th to Friday, November 12th between the hours of 8:45am-12pm and 1pm-4pm.

Our team can help you prepare for registration, answering questions about the process and what you can expect. We are happy to help you with the steps listed in the guide above, including contacting your faculty advisor, reviewing program requirements and progress, building model schedules (and even four-year graduation plans).

In general, our team does not clear students to register before registration opens.

There are exceptions. Exploratory/General Studies students (Arts and Sciences) should come to the Student Success Center for advising and to be cleared for registration.

If you have decided to change your major and have not been assigned a faculty advisor in your new department, you can come to the Office of Academic Advising and Success Coaching for help building a schedule and to be cleared for registration.

(3) Office for Accessible Education \(OAE\) is located in the Pan American Life Student Success Center on the second floor of the Monroe Library.

If you are registered for services through our office, make an appointment with your Accessibility Counselor to review your classroom accommodations. Your Accessibility Counselor can also review your draft schedule to see if you have enough time in between classes to take advantage of testing accommodations. A good rule to follow is scheduling an hour break between each class.

Create your draft schedule to reflect your peak performance times. Make your schedule work for you by selecting course days and times that fit well with your eating, sleeping, and medication regimen. Have a backup plan as well if the classes you desire are not available. Ask your academic advisors about typical assignments expected for classes to make sure your learning style matches. You can also access syllabi through LORA that will provide additional information about the course, attendance requirements, and group project requirements.

Students eligible for priority registration as an accommodation will be notified via your Loyola University email. Make a habit of checking your email daily to find out your registration time. If you are eligible and have not received an email confirmation of priority registration, please check with your Accessibility Counselor.
